

We are amazed at how quickly this year seems to be flying by us as we continue to train and engage with law enforcement and the communities they serve across the country. Here are some of our highlights from the second quarter of 2021.

ANNOUNCED: PARTNERSHIP WITH SOUTH CAROLINA STATE UNIVERSITY

In April we announced The Edwin R. Woodruff Partnership with South Carolina State University, the alma mater of D2C executive advisor, Donnie Shell. Our first HBCU partnership was named in honor of the first and only black FBI agent to die in the line of duty in 1969. As we honor Agent Woodruff and his incredible legacy, we look forward to begin training on campus in the 3rd quarter of 2021.

SC State President James E. Clark said D2C's commitment to diversity and social justice is in keeping with the university's mission and ideals.

"The actions of Mr. Williams will make a difference for student-athletes across the nation," Clark said, "and we are tremendously grateful that the SC State campus community will be on the forefront of this crucial endeavor."

"WHAT CAN A WHITE GUY DO?" ~ KIRK TRIPLETT

Check out the recent article about Kirk Triplett and his decision to take more ACTION on social justice. He asked the question, "what can a white guy do?" and Hall of Famer & D2C Executive Advisor, Donnie Shell, had an answer.

LISTEN. LEARN. UNDERSTAND. ACKNOWLEDGE. TAKE ACTION.

In order to move forward, we must first acknowledge and learn from our past. We remember the passing of George Floyd and the 1921 devastation in Tulsa, Oklahoma. And we celebrate Juneteenth in honor of those emancipated from enslavement.

October 14, 1973 - May 25, 2020

Black Wall Street in Tulsa, OK - May 31, 1921
